A River Runs Again: Reporting on India’s Natural Crisis—and Its Surprising Solutions

Time of Event:
Tuesday, October 13, 2015 - 15:00

This is a non-SESYNC event at: [1]
Woodrow Wilson Center
One Woodrow Wilson Plaza
1300 Pennsylvania Ave., N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20004

In A River Runs Again: India's Natural World in Crisis, from the Barren Cliffs of Rajasthan to the Farmlands of Karnataka, journalist Meera Subramanian travels in search of the ordinary people and micro-enterprises rescuing India's natural world from crisis, from an engineer-turned-farmer bringing organic food to Indian plates to well-intentioned cook stove designers seeking a smokeless fire. And in Bihar, she visits a bold young woman teaching young adolescents the fundamentals of sexual health and in the process, unleashes their untapped potential. In these true stories, Subramanian discovers both cautionary tales and renewed hope for a sustainable and prosperous future for India.

Reporters Lisa Palmer, fellow at the National Socio-Environmental Synthesis Center (SESYNC), and Priyali Sur will comment on the book, drawing on their own experience reporting on climate change, food security, and women's health in India and around the world.

Reception to follow.

Free but registration is required; click here for details. [1]

Associated SESYNC Researcher(s): lpalmer [2]

Event Attendance:
Open to the Public

Source URL: https://www.sesync.org/events-announcements/a-river-runs-again

Links