Annapolis, Maryland

The National Socio-Environmental Synthesis Center (SESYNC) organizes the Annapolis Café Scientifique—a place where, for the price of a cup of coffee or a glass of wine, anyone can come to explore the latest ideas in science and technology.

There is never a cover charge for Café Scientifique!

Please note: seating is limited.

Reservations are strongly suggested and sometimes required depending on attendance. Please call \(410\) 626-9796 to guarantee your seat or, just as importantly, to cancel your reservation so someone on the waitlist may attend.

About this Café

Dennis vanEngelsdorp [2] started keeping bees after taking an undergraduate course in beekeeping at the University of Guelph, Canada. He has worked for the Canadian Government as a consultant to the Antigua Beekeepers Cooperative, in the West Indies. He returned north to work at Cornell University as an extensionist where he helped develop their master beekeeping program. The former Acting State Apiarist for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, he is currently an Assistant Professor of Entomology at the University of Maryland and Project Director of the Bee Informed Partnership. As one of the founding members of the Colony Collapse working group, he spends considerable time investigating this latest threat to honey bee populations.
