Socio-Environmental Synthesis Research Proposal Writing Workshop

This is a closed workshop for pre-selected graduate students.

It is intended to provide graduate students with:

- introductions to SESYNC, socio-environmental synthesis research, team science, and actionable science;
- networking opportunities to build professional relationships with other students, particularly those from different disciplines; and
- training sessions on the methods, challenges, and strategies associated with writing successful proposals, especially those related to the type of work SESYNC supports.
